EXPERTISE • COMMITMENT • VALUE

Burton Sweet is led neither by the services we provide nor by the sectors we operate in. We are guided instead by our clients and the help and support they require. Our clients learn of ways to save money. They are freed from the hassle of financial compliance, and their tax bills are reduced.

Not quite 'rocket science', perhaps, but it's what we do very well for our clients. We really come into our own when assisting individuals or businesses with tax planning or working more closely with business owners, FDs and financial controllers who use financial planning not only to run a tight ship but to interrogate, understand and control their business.

More than just bean counters

To those astute business leaders, we are a support network of value-adding financial experts and professional advisers. We can ensure that plans are understood and incorporate tax effective solutions to meet the business as well as an individual's own and broader family requirements.

Multi-disciplined teams of experts

Across Burton Sweet's South West offices, specific divisions look after the differing needs of a diverse range of business types, from leading regional corporates aiming to grow through acquisition to sole traders just starting out. Dedicated teams also specialise in particular sectors, demonstrating genuine excellence in their spheres, from rural businesses to charity and not-for-profit business sectors.

But don't just take our word for it. In November 2014, we were awarded the title of 'Accounting Firm of the Year' at the annual ICB Global Annual Dinner and Luca awards at BAFTA in London. The awards were presented by His Royal Highness Prince Michael of Kent GCVO, ICB Global's Royal Patron.
